DETAILED ACTION

Specification

It is suggested to update the information under the sub-title "Related Applications".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 30, 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

3. It is unclear in claim 30, how the first successive approximation subconverter stage produces a residue output and then receives the same residue as mentioned in claim 30, lines 2, 3.

4. Claim 31 is automatically rejected due to the fact that it depends on claim 31 which is an independent claim rejected under 112 2nd.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 30, 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Thomas et al. (US Patent Number 6,124,818).

Art Unit: 2819

7. Regarding claim 30, Thomas et al. discloses a pipelined analog to digital conversion system (fig. 3) that comprises a first successive approximation subconverter stage (302, fig. 3) comprising a switched capacitor system (154, figs. 1A) including a first capacitor array (102, 204, 106, 108, 110, 112 form the capacitor array), the first successive subconverter stage (302) receives a conversion system analog input (V_{in}) and providing subconverter stage digital output (fig. 3) representative of the conversion system analog input and a first residue output (314, fig. 3) representative of a difference between the conversion system analog input and the first subconverter stage digital output (fig. 3)[as noted in fig. 3, the pipeline ADC has a number of bit in two stage successive approximation which receives analog signal to produce a digital signal at the output of the presampler¹ and also provides a residual signal at 314]; and a second successive approximation subconverter stage (350, fig. 3) comprising a second switched capacitor system (154, figs. 1A,B)[figs. 1A, 1B are representation of successive approximation subconverter in which switched capacitors are used with combination of a control system and SAR]; a second capacitor array (102, 204, 106, 108, 110, 112 form the capacitor array) [the second switched capacitor array has the same configuration as the second array], the first (second) successive subconverter stage receives the first residue output and providing a second subconverter stage digital output of the first residue output (fig. 3).

8. Regarding claim 31, Thomas et al. discloses a pipelined ADC (fig. 3) wherein the first (302) and second subconverter stage digital outputs (350) are both multi-bit (n-bit outputs)[col, 4, lines 5 – 9).

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 1 – 29 are allowable.
10. Reasons for allowing these claims will be provided in the next office action.

Conclusion

11. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
12. Ginetti (US Patent Number 5,764,176) discloses a pipelined ADCs and interstage amplifiers for such converters.
13. Bright (US Patent Number 6,222,478) discloses a pipeline ADC system using a modified coding scheme and method of operation.
14. Wada et al. (US patent Number 6,304,206) discloses a voltage comparator operational amplifier and ADC circuit employing the same.
15. Hisano (US patent Number 6,489,904) discloses a pipeline ADC with on chip digital calibration.
16. Zhang et al. (US patent Number 6,366,230) discloses a pipelined ADC.
17. Wu et al. (US patent Number 6,456,211) discloses a method and system for calibrating a data converter.
18. Sakurai (US patent Number 6,600,440) discloses a capacitor mismatch independent gain stage for pipeline ADCs.
